The Two Workers.

Two workers in one field,
Toiled on from day to day.
Beth had the same hard labor,
Both had the same small pay.
With same blue skies above,
The same green grass below,
One soul was full of love,
The other full of woe. One leap'd up with the light, With the soaring of the lark: One felt it ever night, For his soul was ever dark. One heart was hard as stone, (tro heart ever say. One had a llower-clad cot made is seeing and in the a wretched hovel had,
Full of discord, dirt and din,
o wonder he seemed mad, Wife and children starved within till they worked in the same field. Still they worked in the same field. Toiled on from day to day, Both had the same hard labor, Both had the same small pay. But they worked not with one will. The reason let me tell-led the one drauk at the still, And the other at the well.

THE COMPASS IN A FOG.

Did you ever hear the Bible comared to the mariner's compass?direct those who are journeying rough this world; a counsellor, takes a journey for pleasure, leavgive advice to those who lack takes a journey for pleasure, leavline her husband to toil in a close ney Caps Water Tables &c. through this world; a counsellor. have readily understood why such home, to her servants names have been given to that blesbe like a mariner's compass? You probably know that a com-ape the course of his ship across her husband, and does not seorn the desired point in another part of the world. He consults it many times every day, and would consider it a great misfortune to be deprived that instrument at sea. One beautiful summer evening was on board of a steamer. Every first part of the night; the stars were out and shining brightly; the sea was cahn, the vessel sped swiftly on her way, and all was all successful and shining brightly. when the passengers retired to rest. But towards morning a fog began WILLS, S. HAYS .....RIVER EDITO gather about us; and the nearer he hour approached for the sun to

I soon found that the officers did not consider our position without peril. We were lost in the fog, and cheerful yesterday. No news of erise from above caused them to look as if they had been sent to ansed them to look as if they had been see they felt that we were too near the rock-bound coast to be groping along in that dark misty, shroud.

The captain, pilot, and another of the captain of the ca they seperated, the signal was immediately given to start the engines; and, at the same time, a turn one time, a turn of the water in the channel. Weather lear. Thermometer 54 degrees.

The Heart and the Life.

we are necustomed to think. When we are do not live as we ought, we are apt to persuade ourselves nevertheless that our hearts are right. Thus we certainly deceive ourselves. The tenor of the daily life is the true index to the heart. Christ says, "By their fruits ye shall know them."
